BELVIDERE
HIGH SCHOOL

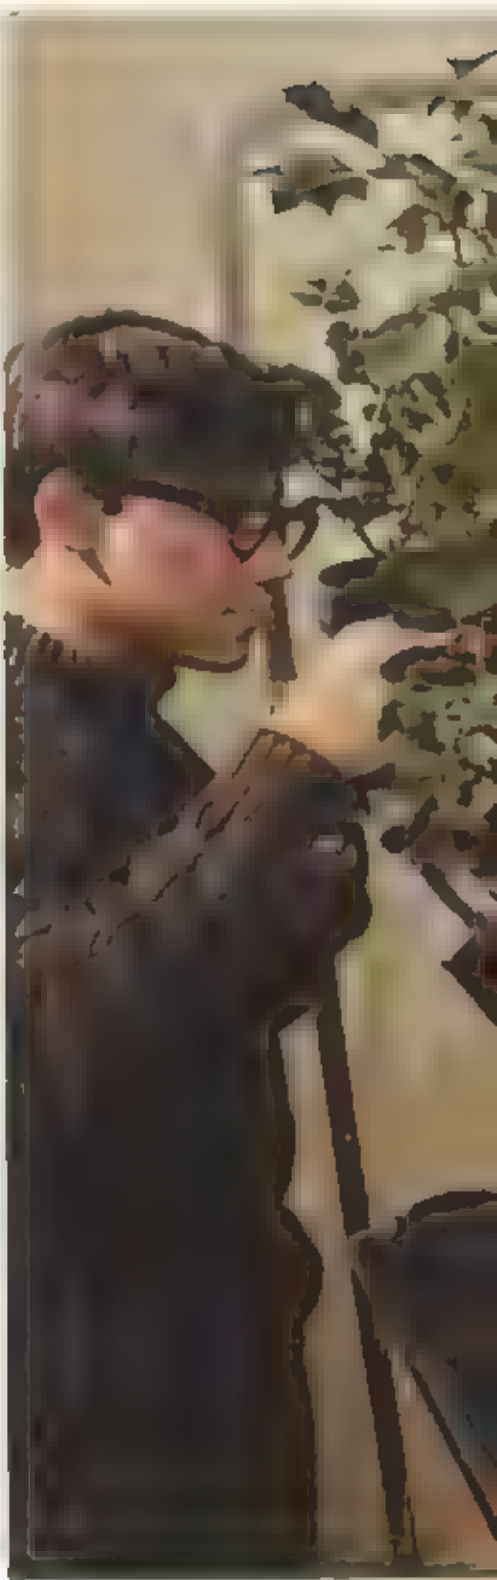

The changing

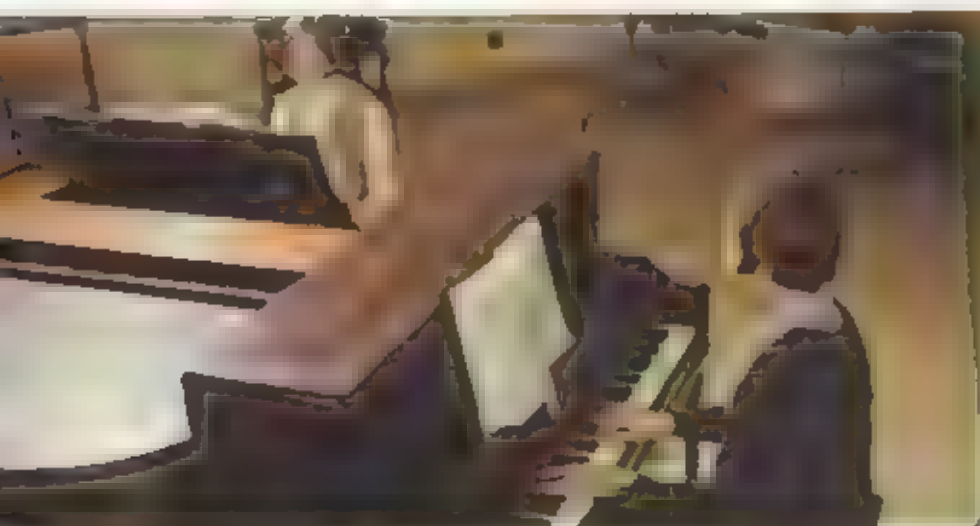

We experience, each day,
Myriads of feelings.
Plunging into a world
Not ours alone,
We delight
In the companionship of friends,
In sharing moments
Of laughter and relaxation.
The eagerness of youth,
Bubbling with joyous exuberance,
Becomes an integral part of our life.
Yet as it passes,
Savor each clear, sparkling moment,
And remember people . . . happy.

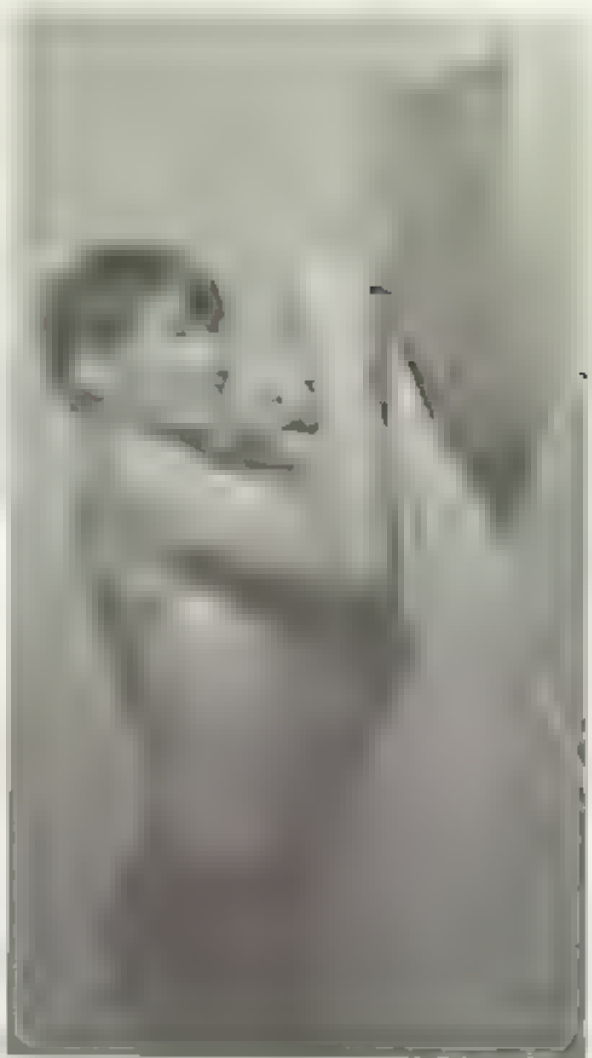

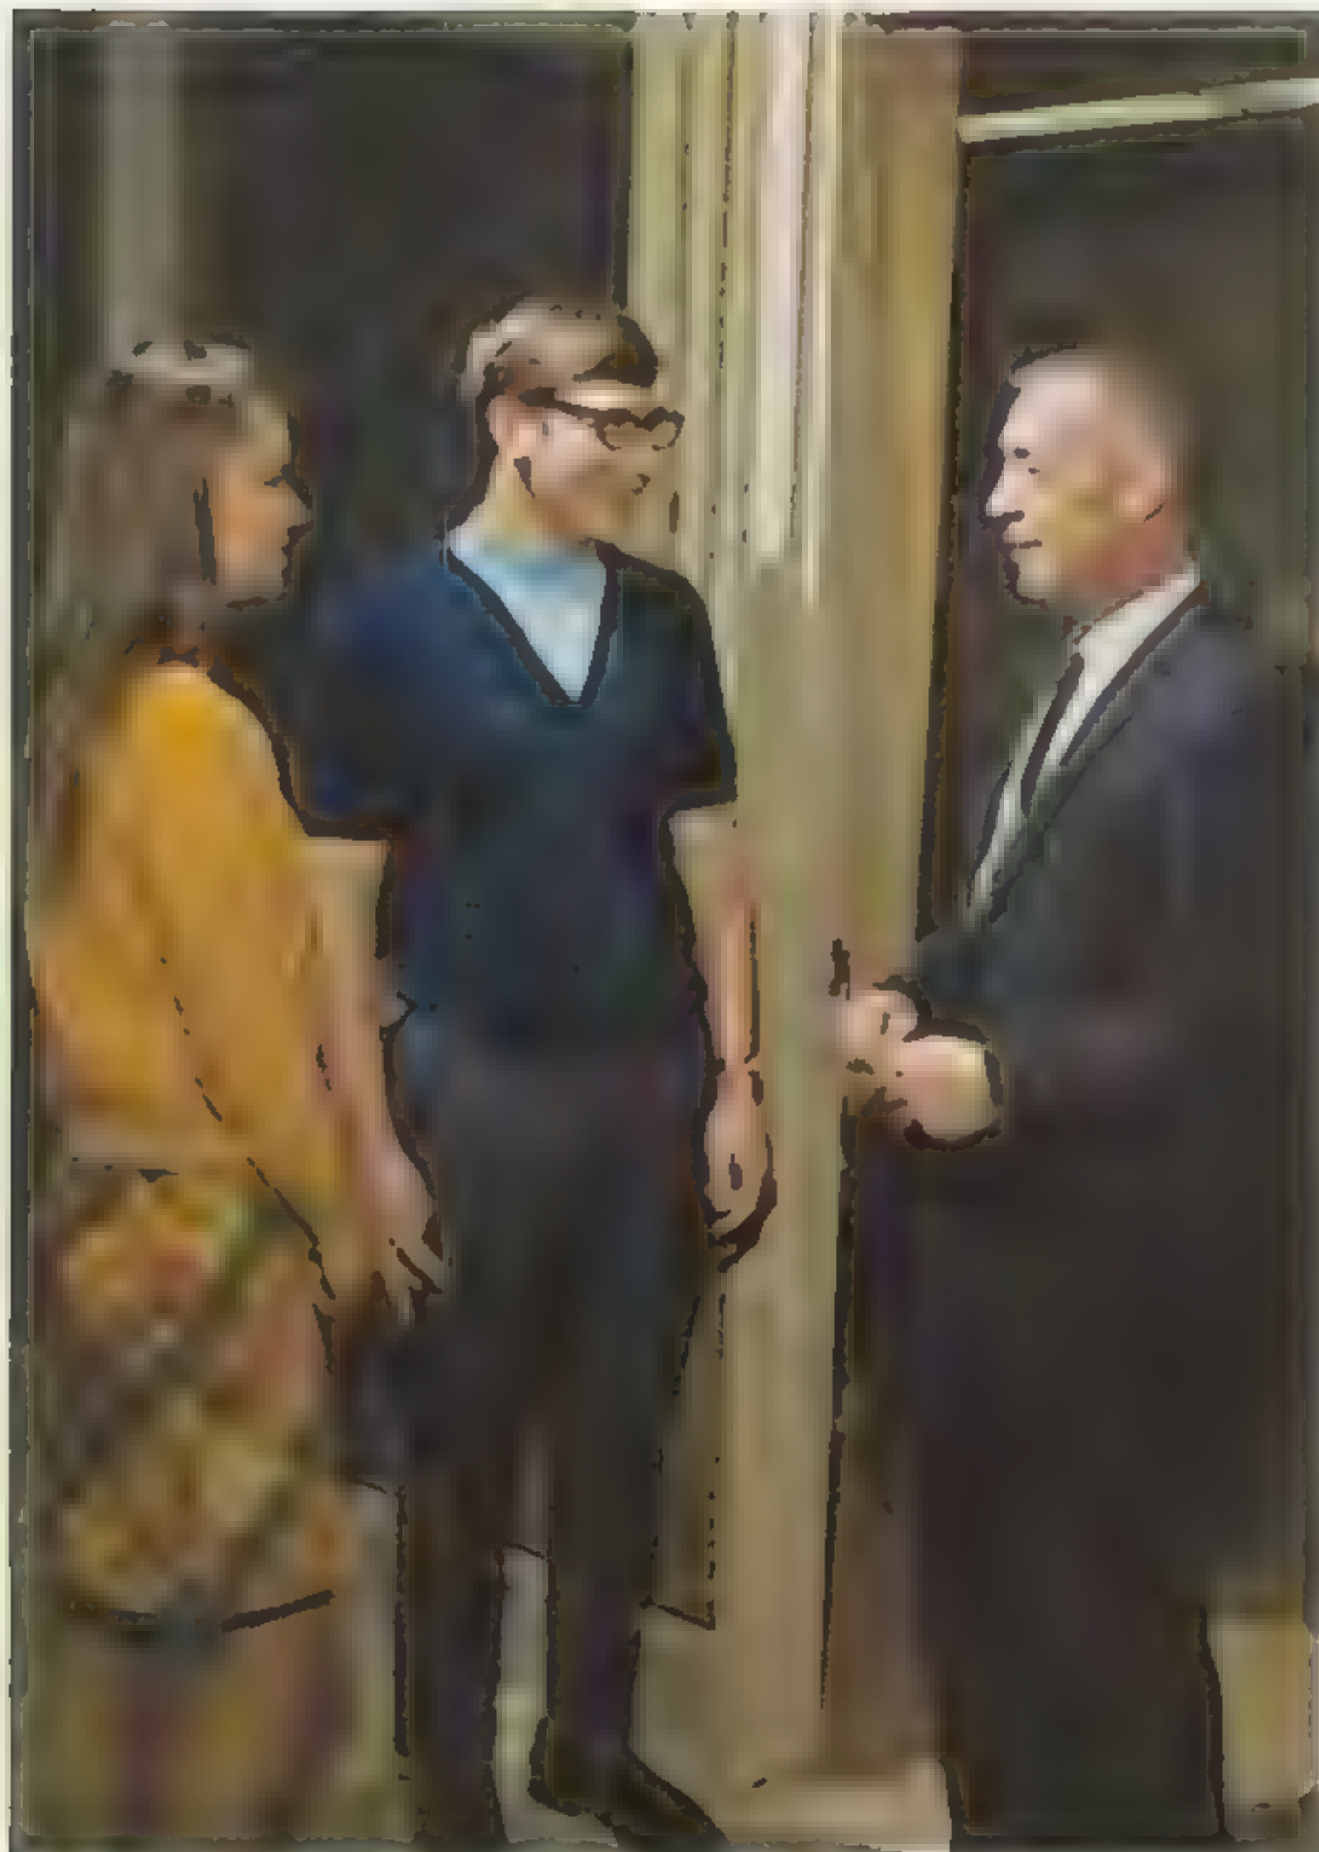

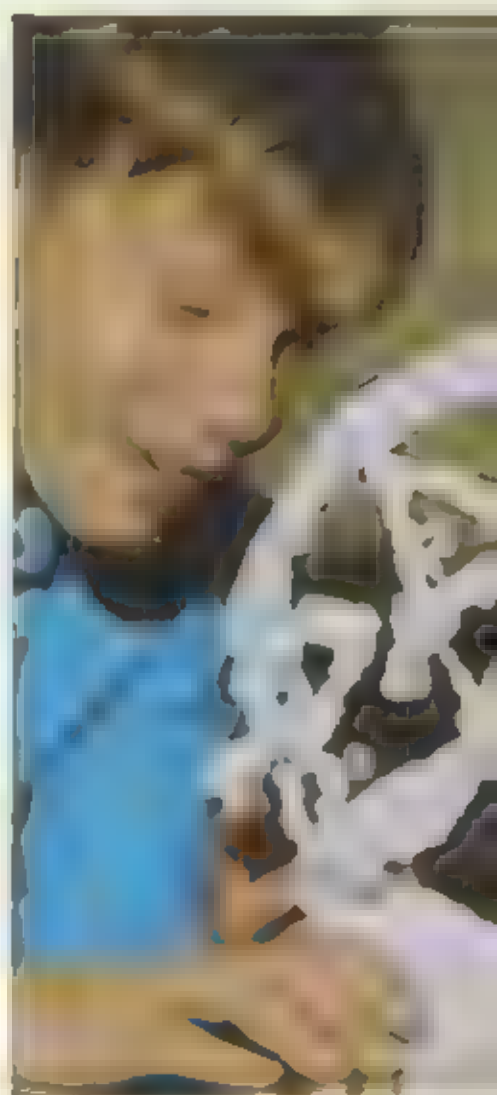

The light changes
And we are sobered,
Awed by the marvels and questions
Of learning and growing
At times we must be serious
In seeking to better ourselves.
The world calls us
To prepare for the future,
To meet today's demands
With patience and diligence
Yet all is not learned
Between the covers of books
This we understand as we move onward
And remember people . . . seeking

The world stands before us,
Unconquered and challenging
We must call forth
All our strength and determination
In the struggle for recognition.
It is not easy,
For we must strain to grasp
That which lies beyond our reach.
We grapple with puzzling questions
And impossible situations.
In the heat of competition,
We strive to achieve,
Anxious, yet exhilarated.
One day, we will reach the top,
Our goals attained, pause there,
And remember people . . . trying.

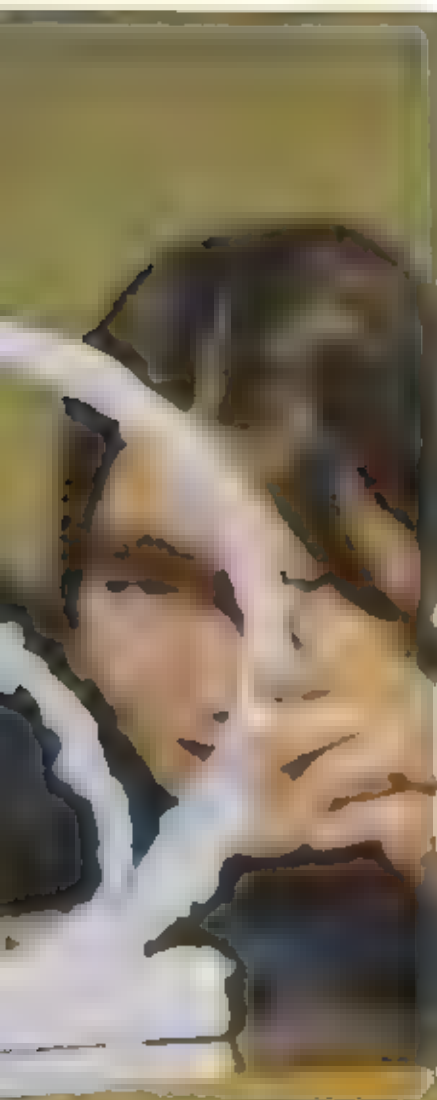

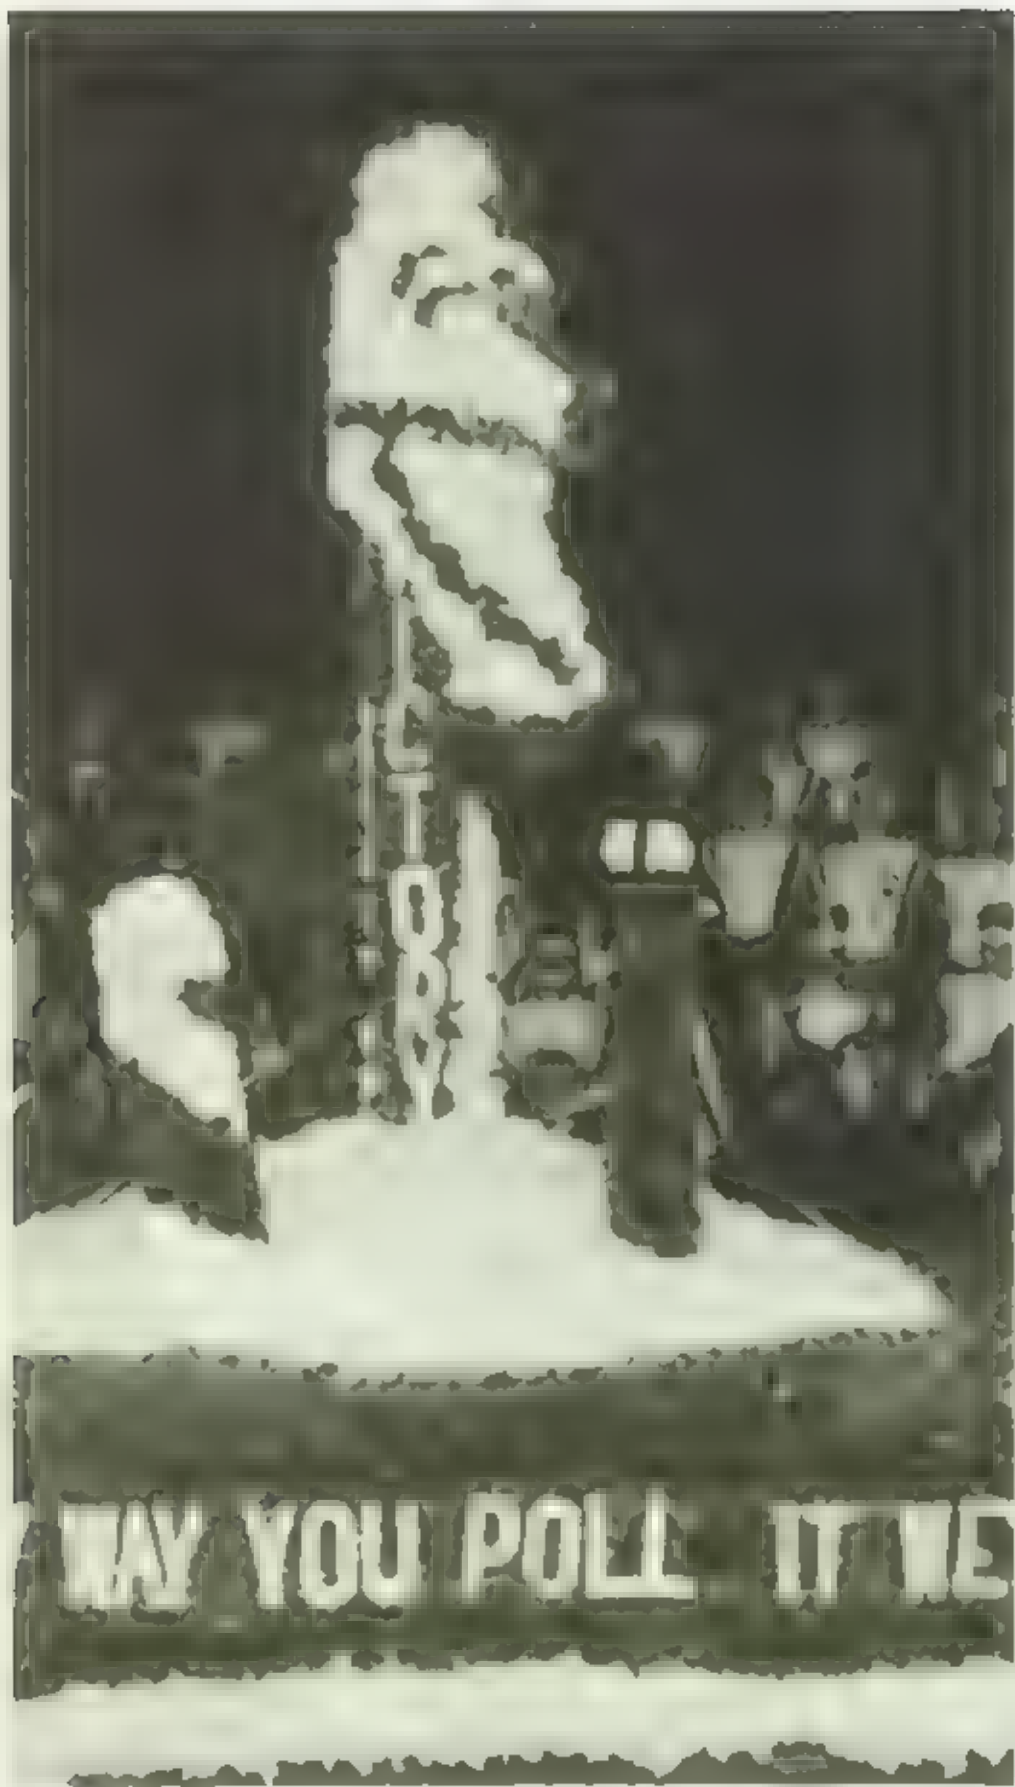

Within the kaleidoscope of the mass
 Each is, first, an individual,
 Seeking identification
 As a single one
 Who am I?
 How do I find myself
 In the potpourri of feelings, souls?
 These questions we have asked
 And sought their answers
 Within the community of BHS
 Here we have found
 Friendship and guidance
 Here we have become aware of beauty
 And sensed wonder
 Here we have belonged
 In departing,
 We leave behind a legacy,
 Something of ourselves,
 People ... bright,
 kaleidoscopic,
 unique

SC strives to project new, more active image

Student directories, two special students weeks, a student-faculty game, two student dances, and a student exchange with Thornridge High School thus Student Council tried to slant its prospective toward BHS students.

But SC did not ignore the outside world. They aided the Jaycee Charity and Heart Fund Drives, and planned our Christmas project for the victims of the mine disaster in Virginia.

Of course, members also participate in their own group activities—the annual banquet, a picnic, and four SC conventions.

1. Randy Smith, president; 2. Linda Parker, vice-president; 3. Mary Beth Kamholz, secretary;
4. Dave McKay, treasurer; 5. Mike Barr, reporter

A spirit of gaiety prevails as students celebrate the week before Christmas with candy canes from Santa, Pennies for People, a Christmas Card Exchange, and Dress-Down Day.

As the school year begins, Student Council extends a cordial welcome to teachers at the annual faculty tea.

At the club week assembly, Randy Smith, symbolizing the new Student Council, adds the final piece of the picture of BHS.

Mr. Carlton, high scorer for the faculty, aims for the hoop, helping the Swashbucklers trounce the student All-Stars, 57-49.

Pep Club boosts school spirit, pride in BHS

"Have you got that spirit?" Pep Club tries to make sure that each student does feel loyalty to BHS. During Homecoming Week, October 14-19, the club involved the whole school in the float-building contest, parade, bonfire, game, and dance.

Finding themselves nearly bankrupt, Pep Club sold goodies at a bake sale and peddled shakers, folders, and booster buttons.

With balloons, "Up With Bucs" tags, and beautiful baby Bucs, Pep Week, January 20-25, honored cross country, football, basketball, and wrestling athletes. An hour-long pep assembly, featuring skits by all four classes, a basketball game with West, and a dance climaxed the week.

Thus, Miss Stueber guided BHS's largest club to a busy and rewarding year.

Girls build muscles, sportsmanship in GAA

Four thousand two hundred boxes of candy plus sixty hours of sports activities added to two big dances mixed in with three hundred fifty girls and one Miss Povolish all together in eight mass meetings. What's all this? The Girls Athletic Association!

With the Buddy Hike, GAA kicks off a yearful of sports activities. In the fall, girls may join an early morning hike or an afternoon game of speedball. In the winter, the gym sees plenty of action—basketball, volleyball, tumbling, and trampoline plus Daddy Date Night. The local bowling alleys have their share of the fun, too, as they witness a rash of gutterballs

"Candy Cane Lane" adds sweetness to holidays

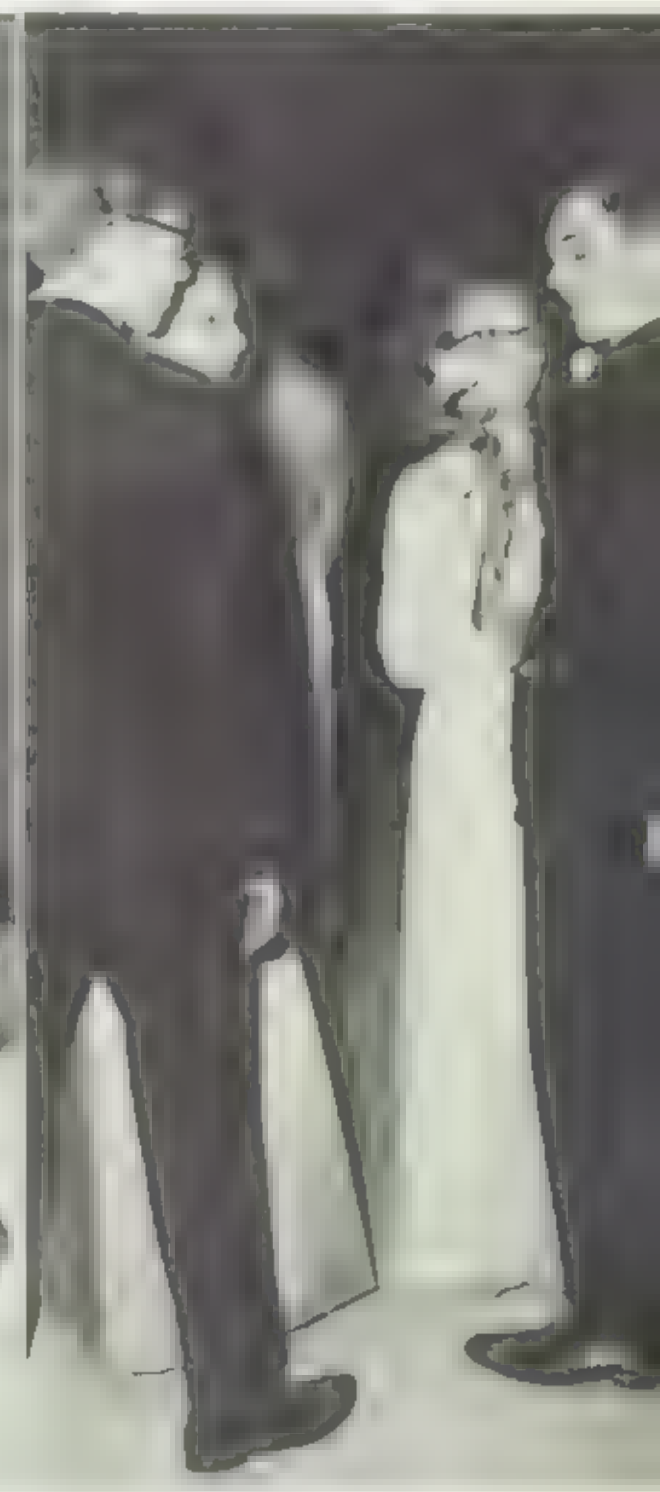

On December 21, 130 female sports enthusiasts exchanged their gym suits for floor-length gowns for one of GAA's very special events, the annual Christmas formal. Girls and their dates danced through "Candy Cane Lane" to the music of the 4-Tunes

"Hey, I'm thirsty! How's the punch?" asks Nancy Wells of David on Shaw

Donna Enright is ready to assure them that her punch is delicious — and expertly poured

At this point, Bob Walker spies the punch bowl. Turning to his date Susan Osterberg, and their companions, Debby Knop and Dave Clark, Bob says, "Hey, I'm thirsty! How's the punch?"

GAA calendar includes more than sports—spring

Jeanette Huddleston and her date Larry Hyser reflect the gaiety of the evening

Spring flowers brightened the BHS cafeteria for GAA's informal, "Daisies Won't Tell." Eighty couples danced to the lively music of the Catalinas, sipped punch when they were out of breath, and made wishes by "Ye Olde Wishing Well" on that very special evening, April 19.

Lynn Schauer, Trudy Fairgrieve, and Cathy Hanson chat leisurely with their dates, John Grady, John Wolf, and Norman Frank

brings informal dance, mother-daughter banquet

GAA girls and their moms, 380 in all, enjoyed a delicious meal served by B-Club at the annual mother-daughter banquet on May 22. The presentation of awards for participation in GAA sports, a singing session and the announcement and installation of new officers drew the GAA year to a close.

A cappella, Choraliers sing for school, town

"Well, hello, Judi . . ." Thus A cappella welcomed Belvidere's beauty. The chorus also blended their voices for the Christmas and spring concerts, a Christmas assembly and caroling party, the all-city Good Friday service, and a three-school festival.

While catching their breath, members enjoyed a club picnic and sold zip code books to earn money for new stoles.

Mixed Chorus and Freshman Girls Glee give students an opportunity to learn the fundamentals of music and have fun singing, too. Both groups take part in the Christmas and spring concerts and help A cappella and Treble Cleff with their moneymaking projects.

This year the girls in Treble Cleff washed cars, stirred up cakes and cookies for bake sales, and organized our school's first Powder Puff football game to earn $900 for new robes. Of course, these activities did not replace Treble Cleff's primary interest—singing. Besides performing in the Christmas and spring concerts, the girls also sang for the Lions Club.

Belvi staff creates 'something special for '69'

"Hey, how many picas for a head?" "Hey, can I run this picture into the gutter?" "Hey . . ." So it goes as the Belvi staff unmercifully plague their advisor, Mr. Waterman. In addition to creating a book to capture 1969 in words and pictures, the staff established a school store, absorbed new ideas from workshops at Champaign and DeKalb, and gorged themselves at their spring banquet

Students use free time helping in library, lab

Although not really organized as clubs, two groups still provide very big services to the students and teachers of Belvidere High School. FFA plans for tomorrow, serves community today

One of the most active clubs in BHS, the Future Farmers of America, (eighty-seven boys, three girls, and advisor Mr. Mills) strives to develop responsible leadership in agriculture. Although they are mostly interested in learning about farming, FFA members found time this year for a dance, a bowling party, picnic, and the annual Parent-Son banquet.

At bi-weekly FFA meetings, members hear speakers on various topics related to farming. Evidently learning much from their field trips to successful area farms, FFA'ers produced a real "cash crop" on their 44 acre corn plot. By planting trees, collecting toys at Christmas for poor children, and sponsoring an all school fire prevention assembly, FFA showed their community concern

Spirited Bucs lack offensive punch

Although the bleachers are empty and the players gone, there remains an intangible spirit that moves us to remember those great days of stampeding feet, roaring crowds, and tense excitement. Football is a tough game, and though we are no longer a part of the noise and confusion under the floodlights, we can still vividly recall the memories of the rugged 1968 season.

As usual, practice began in August. After working steadily for several weeks in the hot weather, our team began to develop into a unit of 49 hard-working boys. Led by the strong coaching of Mike Morris, Ralph McKenna, Fred von der Linden, and Dick Healy, the Bucs anticipated a great year. However, something turned sour, and the season was ended with a mediocre 2-7 mark.

The opening game found us eagerly looking for our first football win against Marion of Woodstock,

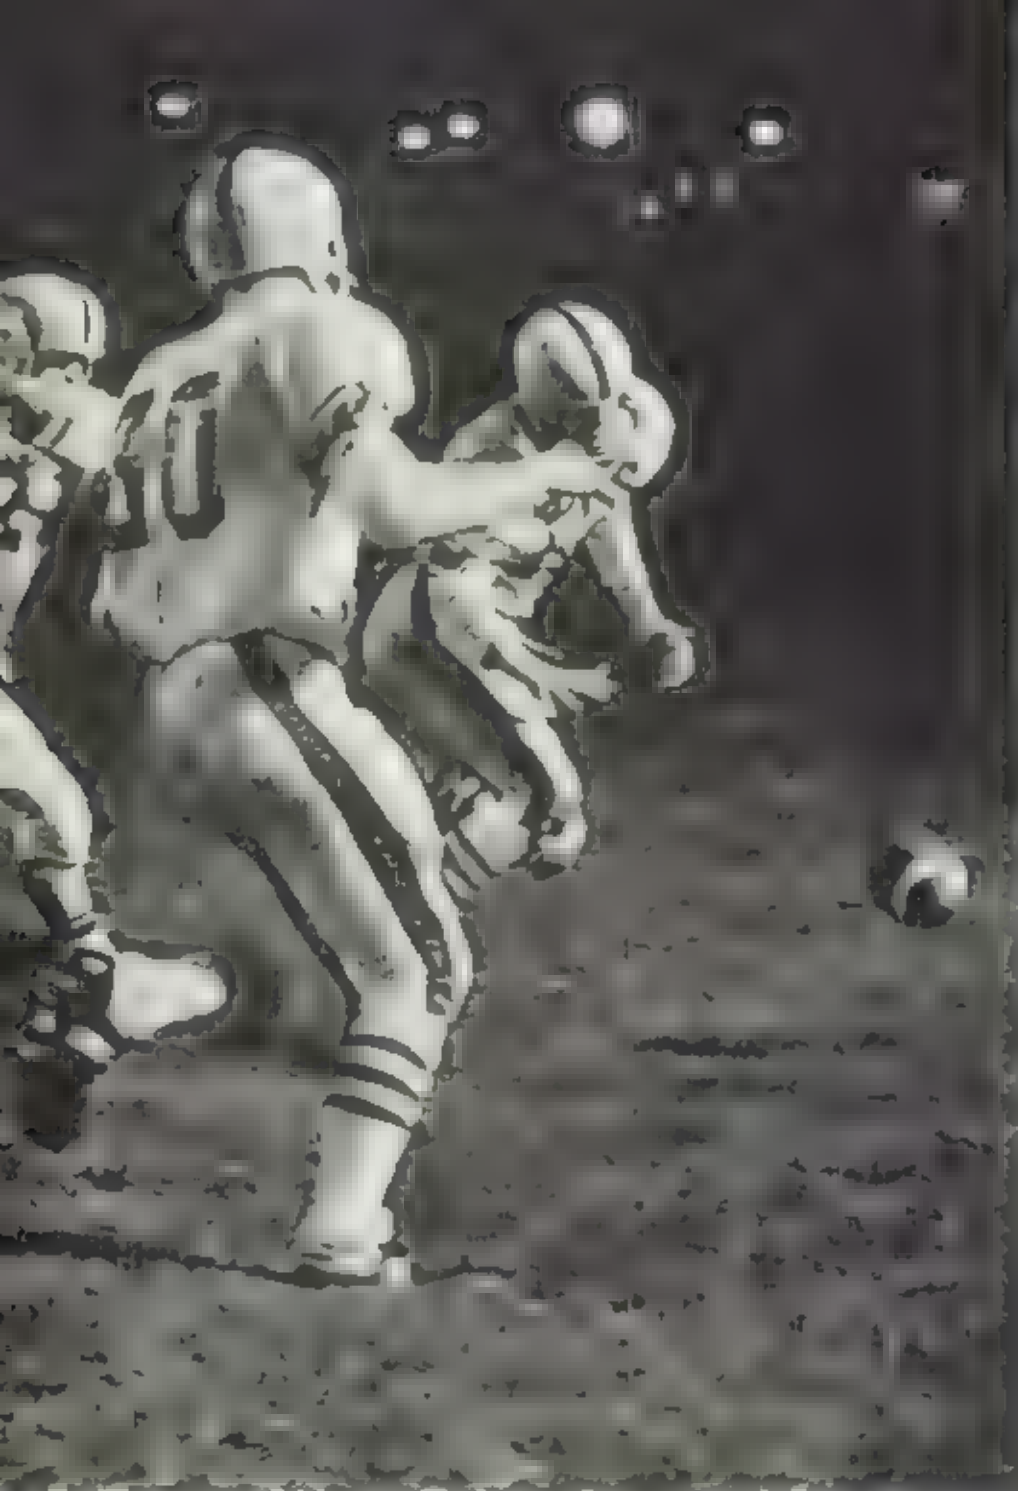

Buc defense gets ready to pounce
Rufus" gives Guilford one of his fakes

and it came in a hot, exciting, heartstopper. Next we faced highly rated DeKalb in a tough defensive battle, until we tried for some easy scores. The gambles backfired, and we found ourselves with the first loss of the year

Spirit zoomed as we faced the Harlem eleven. Though they jumped to an early lead, we fought back bravely, but got tripped up when we couldn't manage any extra points. From there on our fortunes kept going downhill. After playing poorly against West, we stiffened our defenses against a strong East team. Things went extremely well until the fourth period when they broke our back with two quick touchdowns

At Homecoming, Freeport capitalized on our errors and pulled away from a half-time tie to collect a victory over our disappointed boys. Against Boylan, our offense really came alive but it wasn't enough to power us to a win. We continued our losing way with Guilford and ended the season squaring off against Auburn. The elements for success were perfect as we literally trounced them to end the season on a happy note. Although the record was not very good, this year was not a complete failure. We gained a tremendous amount of experience. With the many talented juniors who played this year leading the squad in '69, it really looks like Belvidere will finally have its football champions!

Larry and Tim—two of our best

On a squad as large as the football team, there are some players who earn more recognition than the others. Through the rough practices and games, they distinguished themselves by their abilities on the field. Though all of them couldn't be recognized, there are two who represent the rest of the squad by the players' own vote. This year they are Tim McMahon, as captain, and Larry Hyser, Most Valuable Player and all-conference. We hope that all future athletes will be as dedicated as these two

Sophomores struggle

In spite of the hard work of coaches, Jim Barr and Scott Berry, the Little Bucs season record ended up on the short side. The sophs, even with size and ability, just couldn't generate that winning combination needed to spark them toward success.

The season opened with high hopes when we swept to a convincing victory over Marion Central. Perhaps overconfidence led to our defeat in the next game, as we were stopped short by a well balanced DeKalb team.

Against a tough Harlem team the sophs, unable to find the end zone, dropped the game by two touchdowns. In a hard-fought game against West, we were again beaten by only two touchdowns. The following week we were blanked by a powerful East squad, even though the score at half was only 7—0.

In the Homecoming game we unhappily met our fifth defeat at the hands of Freeport. At Boylan we again lost sight of the end zone and scored only one touchdown, in bowing to their rugged team. Though we scored twice in the next game, it was not enough to hold back a balanced Guilford attack, or Auburn the next week.

From each game came experience, which, when added to our continuing pride and spirit, will determine whether or not Belvidere will become a football power in the future.

Frosh look impressive

Considering a lack of size, the freshmen proved this year that they could win. The team lost several close decisions, but they were hard fought games. Because there were few standouts, the key to this winning attitude was teamwork. They played every game with the desire to win. These boys gave an exciting new attitude towards future Belvidere football teams, and we hope that this will carry on through the next three years as we try to change our football fortunes.

Cross Country enjoys successful season

Oh, my achin' back!

Ask any Cross Country team member about the '67 season, and you will bring back a bad memory. Then ask about the '68 season, and a smile will come to his face. With the courses lengthened by approximately one mile, Coach Hansen's harriers had their first successful season in many years. This success was due to many hours of hard practice and great desire.

Belvidere started out its year well with a double win over Auburn. The remainder of the season provided the Belvidere team with tough competition, with some meets being lost by only small margins. At year's end the varsity team finished in seventh place, while the junior varsity placed fifth.

Craig Lawler paced the varsity runners by taking several firsts in dual competition and breaking two course records. His final meet of the year was the District, where he finished twelfth in a field of two hundred. The team finished a very respectable seventh out of about thirty schools. We hope that this will inspire next year's team to do even better!

Varsity bucketmen jell into solid young team

A new interest in Belvidere basketball awakened this year, due mainly to the ability and dedication of only twelve young men. By no means was the attitude aided by the poor 4—20 record, but rather it was aroused when the Bucs displayed a new brand of basketball, a style that was not only exciting to watch, but one that was also consistent.

Coaches Hanson and Martin molded the team into a solid, efficient group of cool-headed young basketballers. Aggressiveness on defense and smooth ball-handling in tight situations helped the team to stay in many ball games. However, handicaps of smallness, lack of experience, and lack of depth combined caused most of Belvidere's losses.

Since most of the players were underclassmen, there will be many returning lettermen, including all-conference forward Greg Oates. With such a strong team, there is every reason to expect a turn-about from Belvidere's losing ways to a winning season.

Sophomores have a season of many contrasts

Headed by Fred Von der Linden and assisted by Dean Wait, the sophs finished with a 7—17 mark, much short of their potential. Bolstered by the playing of freshman Greg West, the team opened the year with a close win over Sycamore in the Prince Niblet Tourney, but were edged by DeKalb in the championship game.

The team continued to play steady basketball, after nine games compiling a 5—4 record. Then, after heart-breaking overtime losses to Boylan and Guilford, the team's winning spirit collapsed, causing them to drop the next four games by wide margins. Confidence improved, but still they fell short, closing the season with losses against Guilford and non-conference foes.

In the Belvidere Sophomore Tournament a new attitude arose as the sophs overwhelmed Freeport Aquin in the opening game and found sweet revenge by beating their old rival, Boylan. After losing the next game to Guilford, the Little Bucs set out to beat West, but they suffered another heart-breaking loss in an exciting overtime game.

The sophs this year came to win. If this attitude is matched in the future, Belvidere basketball will surely gain the respect it has been striving so long to attain.

Mary Anne hopes for the best

During the year the early morning silence was frequently broken by the shouts and chants of the varsity cheerleaders as they practiced their routines for the games. These dedicated girls put all their energy and spare time into generating pride in BHS athletics. Giving up nearly all of their Friday and Saturday nights, the cheerleaders followed the team to every game, always supporting our boys loyally in victory or in defeat. Throughout the year, they gave every ounce of pep toward making BHS a school in which we all could take pride. The enthusiasm and unflagging spirit that this year's varsity squad displayed will always remain at BHS—a tribute to the greatness of these eight tremendous girls

Backing the Little Bucs throughout the sports season were the sophomore cheerleaders. These girls inspired pep among their classmates as they cheered their way through each game. They practiced long and hard to perfect their timing and master a large assortment of cheers. The support they unfailingly provided for our sophomore athletes proved to be a real asset for the team.

Bubbling enthusiasm characterized this year's cheerleading squad. Many a Saturday morning found these seven girls yelling encouragement to our budding freshman athletes. Rallying the support of their classmates, the cheerleaders spurred their boys toward victory.

Inexperience causes wrestling headaches

This year the wrestling Bucs struggled through the long season to finish with a 3—12 dual mark. It was a rough year as many young and inexperienced wrestlers had to fill the ranks of those who had graduated. However, spirit was high, and the meets still exciting.

The varsity started the year with two wins out of five meets, but from there on the luck ran all downhill. Competition was keen. Although the wrestlers worked hard to overcome their inexperience and many improved rapidly, it was not enough. Several of the remaining meets were close, but the team could manage only one more dual win.

In tournament action, the Bucs couldn't muster much team strength, but several individuals fared well. Among these was heavyweight Doug Gorham. Though side-lined from the Big Eight meet with a shoulder injury, Doug took District honors and advanced to the sectional where he was beaten, finishing the year with a superb 25—5—1 record.

Considering that the up-coming Bucs will have experience and a fine coach, we can foresee nothing but future wrestling greatness.

The team watches anxiously

Wrestling is a grueling sport in which, win or lose, the grappler has to be a top flight performer. It is a tough sport for a tough individual; there is no room for second best. At BHS, pride, practice, and determination are the by-words of this sport. Let's keep it that way.

Sophs press forward

Even with the loss of many of their more experienced wrestlers, this year's sophomore team compiled a 10—2 record. Aided by some outstanding freshman talent, the team started out the season with a pair of wins. After a close loss to Elgin, they posted victories in their next four meets.

The Guilford Vikings dealt our young grapplers their next defeat, which proved to be their last. Again the spirit rose and the team closed their season of dual meets with four straight wins.

The strength and ability of the sophomore team was exemplified at the Big Eight Conference Meet where our boys captured third place. Steve Hansen, Steve Thomas and freshman Brian Smith won championship honors in their respective weight classes.

With the experienced freshmen returning to next year's team, our sophomores have an excellent chance for another conference championship.

Trackmen find going

Throughout the rainy spring months, George Goeser's varsity cindermen struggled to achieve a 3-6 season record, an improvement over last year. Handicapped by lack of depth, Belvidere couldn't muster enough strength in either running or field events to rack up many victories. Most meets appeared to be mismatches, even though our tracksters put out tremendous efforts every time they competed, setting new records for the mile and two mile runs.

The steadying influence of coaches Scott Berry and Paul Frykholm helped the team to jell, while concentrated efforts by such individuals as Craig Lawler, John Woodworth, Bob Walker, and Rick Blake prevented any disasterous losses. Greg Oates, who went to the state meet, consistantly placed first in the broad jump and was voted the trackmen's most valuable player.

Considering that many of this year's standouts were under-classmen, next year's team could be a Big Eight contender, but only if they dedicate themselves seriously to the practice and hard work that must accompany a successful season.

Sluggers fall one short of 300 victories

1969 was another great year for Belvidere baseball fans with a fine season record of 15—7. It was coach Joe Lewis' 24th year as head mentor, and the team really worked to get him his 30th victory at BHS and a conference championship as well.

The early part of the season went well except for close games against Boylan and Harlem lost by one run scores. Victories were earned mostly by the superb pitching of the Belvidere staff and some daring feats by the base-runners as they used the old favorite—the "squeeze play" at the plate. These assets combined to overcome occasional lapses at the plate, but often the Bucs had to hang on to slim margins to get the wins. At other times the hits were scattered just too thinly, which resulted in several untimely losses. One of these came against Guilford in the last conference game. We needed a win to give us a share of the conference title and our 300th victory. Hopes were dashed, though, as we bowed 2—1 in a tough game that left us in second place.

With our success we managed to place Paul Pedersen on the all-conference first team, while Kurt Suhr, Dave Whitfield, and Mike Barr made the second team.

Golf team impressive

Under the guidance of coach Ralph McKenna, this year's golf team finished with what was considered their finest season record, a 13—4 mark.

Spearheaded by senior medalists Marty Dommers and Randy Wahler, the team won their first five matches until handed a loss by DeKalb. After winning three of the next four matches, they had continued success, obtaining five more victories against only two losses.

In the Big Eight match at Freeport, the team slipped and finished a close fifth. However, the District was much better as Belvidere placed second and missed going downstate by only two strokes. With next year's returning lettermen, we hope the golf team can stick to its winning ways.

The 1969 edition of the Belvidere tennis team was not too outstanding, although the members did show some progress. The record under coach Wayne Hancock was only 3—9, due mainly to inconsistent play by the racketmen. Inexperience also hampered their bid for a successful season.

Although the team did poorly, senior Tim McMahon was successful. He placed second in the Big Eight singles competition, the first Buc ever to reach the finals. We hope that others will follow in his steps next year and bring BHS its first winning season ever.

Intramural champions

The intramural program at Belvidere High School is open to all boys who are not out for any interscholastic sport and has always been a big part of the athletic department's schedule. Every year about 600 boys participate in each of the many varieties of sports offered, with members of the champion team being given trophies to recognize their achievement.

Supervising this outstanding program during the 24 years he has been at BHS is Coach Joe Lewis. His great dedication has been the unseen force behind our intramural program that has made it such a success

The Learned

Administration keeps school, students

The school board members, the superintendent, the principal, and the assistant principal, comprise the hierarchy of BHS. They are the policymakers of our high school, the governing body of this institution. Theirs is the task of looking after 1424 students, 73 teachers, 7 custodians, 18 cafeteria ladies, and 170,000 square feet of building running smoothly

Underneath all those reams of white, pink, and yellow forms, the guidance office tries to serve the individual who needs help. The deans guide students to correct conduct; the counselors guide students in vocational and academic plans.

Science courses offer excitement to students. In biology one can dissect a frog and test himself for his blood type. In chemistry if he does not blow up the whole school, he will at least break a couple of test tubes. exercises create awareness in facts, figures

Just as physical education classes help the students stay in the best physical condition, math classes help them remain in top mental shape. Both working out on a trampoline and working out an algebraic equation provide necessary exercise for this conditioning

Through books, art, music, language, students

A note of culture appears in BHS in the music, art, and library departments. Students with musical inclinations may join the band or chorus; students with an interest or talent in drawing or painting may take art. The library is the one department with something for everyone, whether it be a place to research, to study, to read, or to visit with friends before school

learn of other lands

Everyone who takes a foreign language faces what seems at first an insurmountable obstacle. But as his first year rolls along he finds himself well acquainted with such phrases as, "Ich weiss es nicht," "Que je suis bête," or "Cómo estás?" If he reaches second, third, or fourth year level, he will even find himself familiar with not only the language, but also with the culture of the countries which speak the language he is studying.

Proud people—a first place Christmas tree standing in the library, a Homecoming float created through many hours of cheerful labor.

Spirited people—a mighty yell of “silly, silly, sophomores,” a winning of the spirit stick, a tingle of pride for the Little Bucs.

Maturing people—a course in driver’s ed., a sixteenth birthday, a driver’s license.

Studious people—a scribbled page of English notes, a frown of concentration during the NEDT test, a long list of names on the sophomore honor roll

Expectant people—a coveted title of upperclassmen, a sparkling class ring, a year waiting to be made beneficial, exciting, memorable.

Homecoming: Sophs work hard, cheer loudly

The Scholarly

Juniors

Juniors .

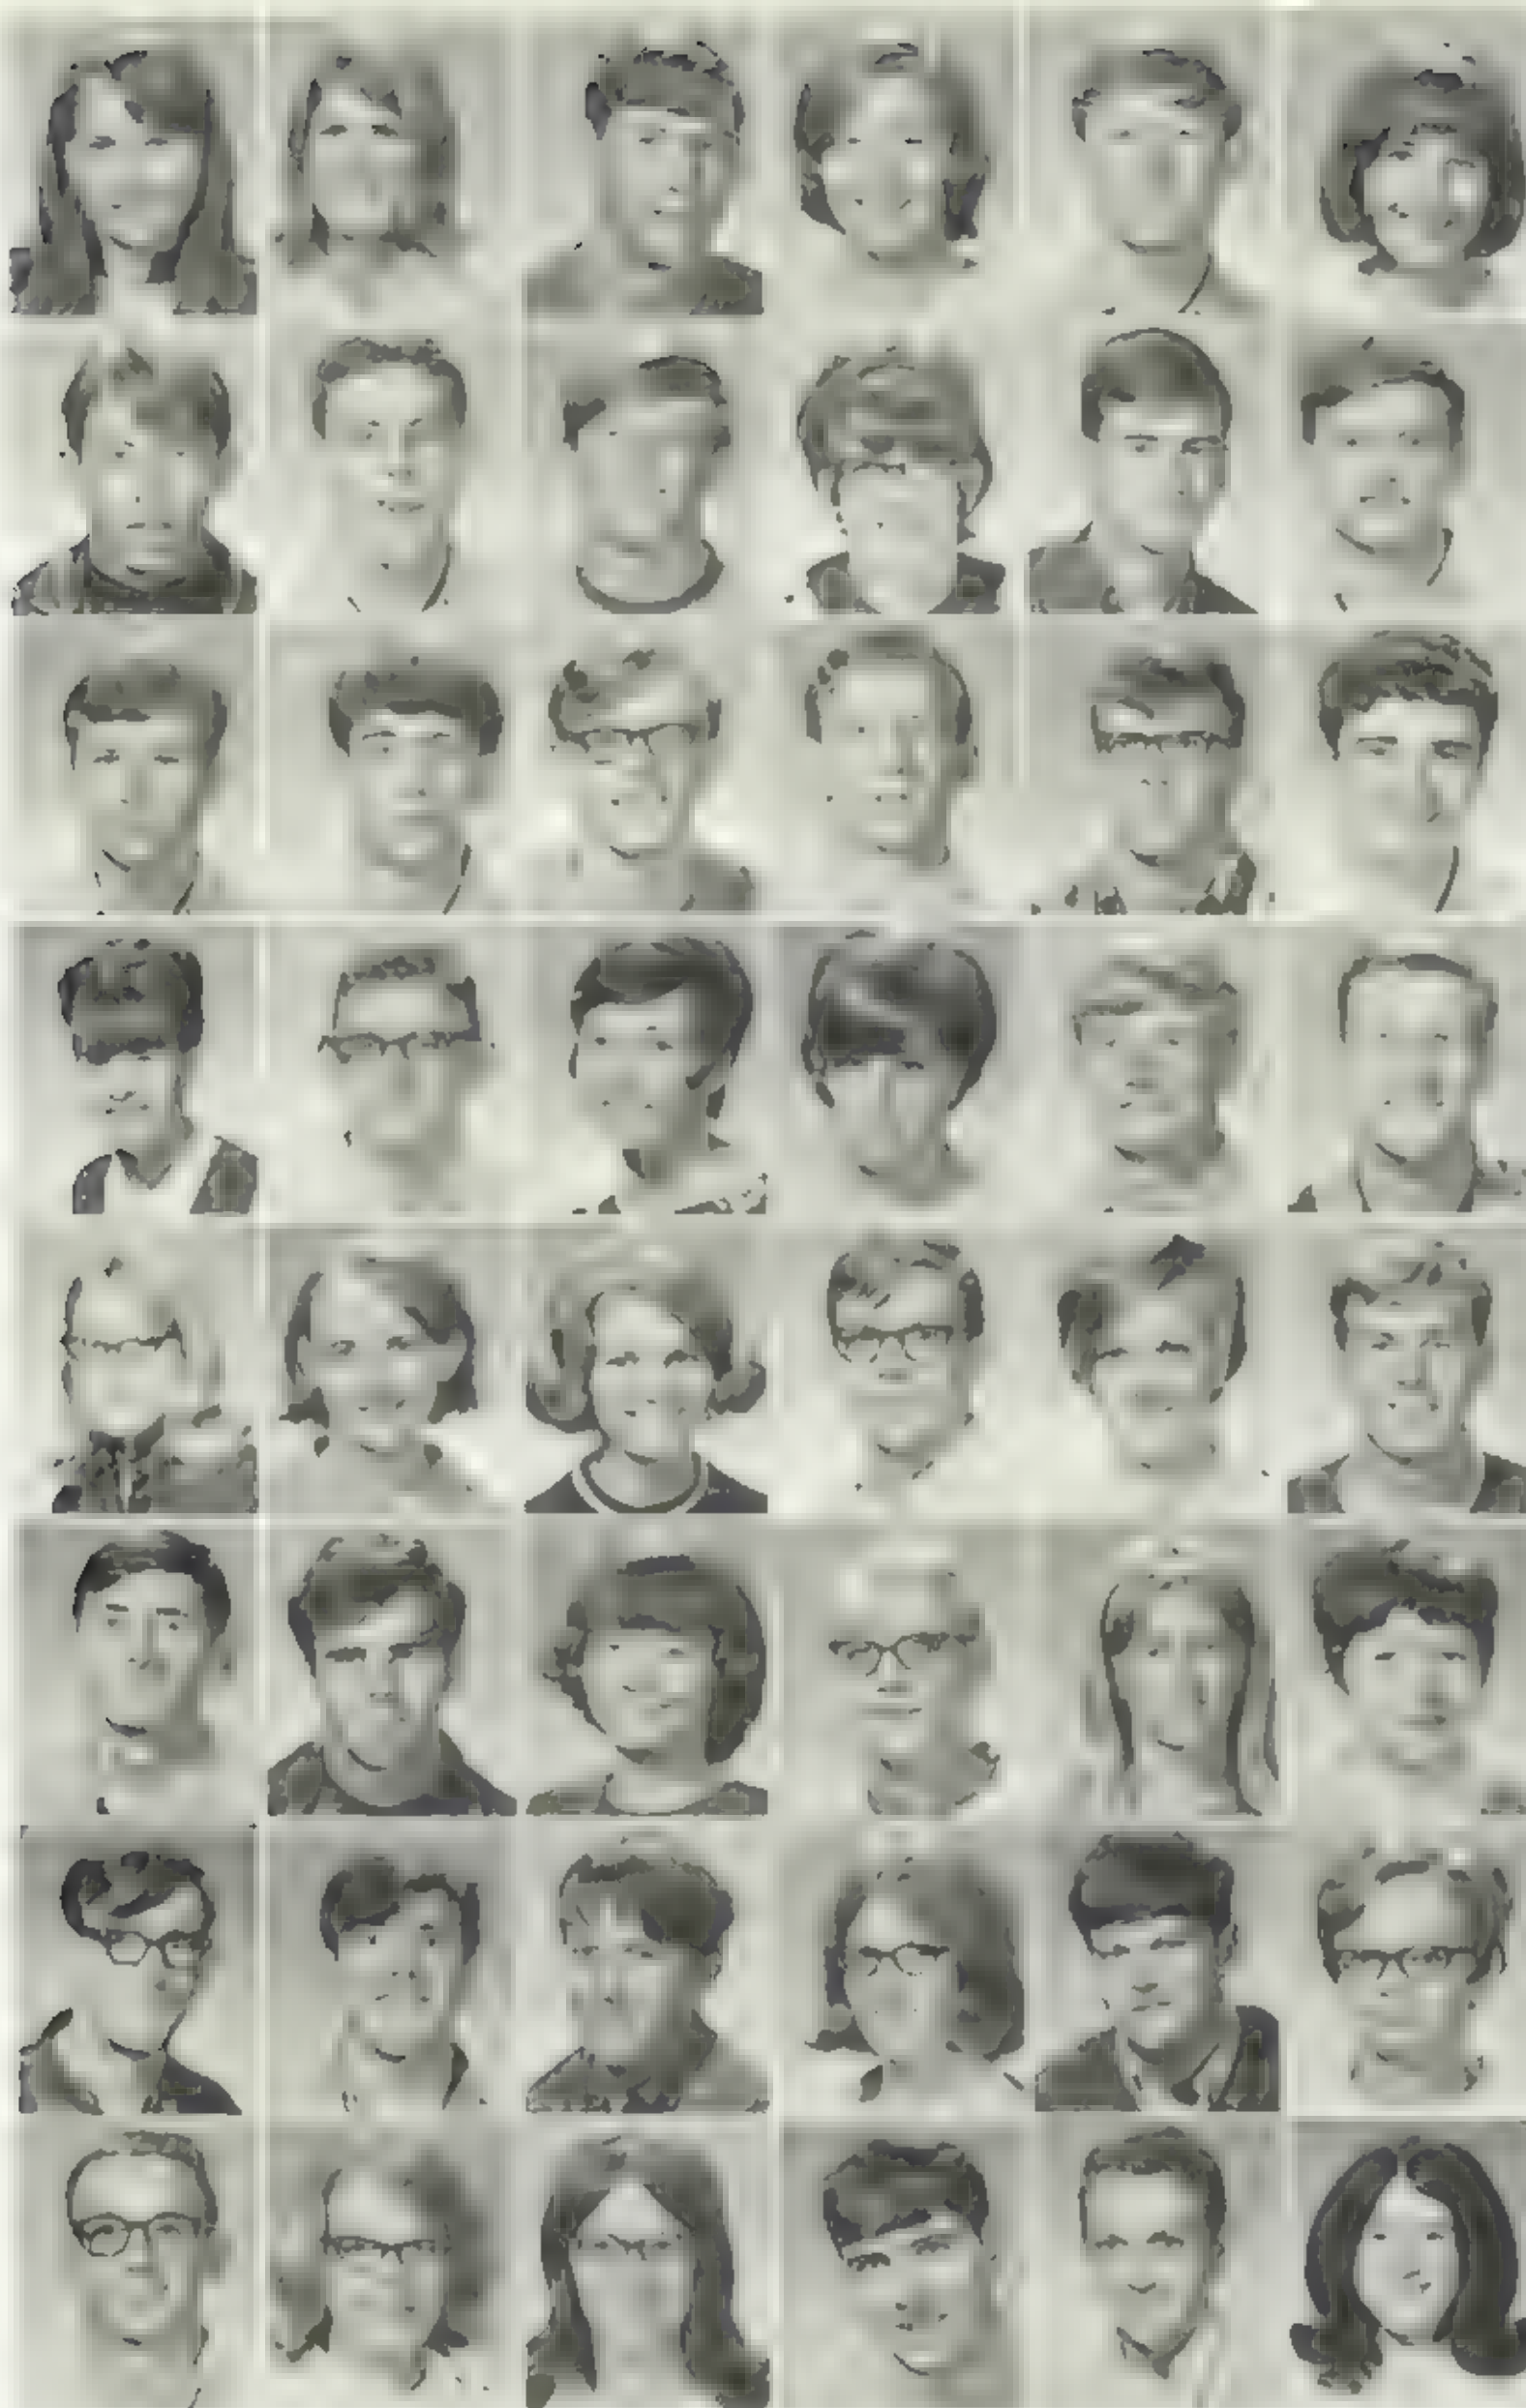

Proudly flashing shiny class rings, dreamily imagining that first prom, feverishly scribbling note cards for the term paper due the next Monday.

Contentedly admiring the Christmas tree which won second place, exuberantly shouting "BGOC, BGOC!" at the Powder Puff football game, earnestly memorizing important dates and places of the American Revolution, industriously stuffing paper into chicken wire, creating a giant ballot box.

Resolutely attacking the National Merit, SAT, and ACT tests, diligently studying a dog-eared copy of The Scarlet Letter, confidently fulfilling their role as upperclassmen, anxiously awaiting their next, their last year of high school.

The Scholarly

Seniors

Seniors .

A shout of happiness for the first place Homecoming float, a yell of victory after the Powder Puff game, a round of applause for "The Man Who Came to Dinner."

The satisfaction of being "on top," the agony of making crucial decisions, the frustration of the dragging days of second semester, the apathy of "senioritis."

The growing realization of finality—the last football game, the last club week, the last musical, the excitement of anticipation—mailing graduation announcements, modeling a robe, counting the hours.

A conflict of emotions, a rush of memories—struggling, trying times, studious, serious times, carefree, happy times

Top students win well-deserved 'honor' status

The ten pound stacks of books, the thousands of hours of study, the scores of pounding headaches, the reams of notebook paper, the sleepless term paper nights, the aching eyes, the writer's cramp, the exhaustion—all were wages for those gold letters on a diploma, "Cum laude"!

American Legion sends staters to summer camp

Scholarship, character, and service—carefully judging the top juniors and seniors by these criteria, the faculty elected 46 new members to the National Honor Society. This year NHS, although not admitting its full quota, did increase 200 percent.

Selected by the American Legion for their scholarship, character, loyalty, and service, Mary Beth Kamholz, Roger Larson, and Bob Popp represented BHS at Girls and Boys State. Their week of setting up and operating their own government gave them a working knowledge of state affairs.

Susan dons mantle, school's most coveted award

The music department annually recognizes two students who have most benefited the school with their musical ability. This year, Mr. Livingston chose Linda McEachran to receive the Kathy Moan Award. The concert band presented the John Philip Sousa Award to Susan Behnke

Selection by Mr. Livingston, Mr. Johanning, and the officers, a constitution test, an audition, secret initiation—thus those who excel in vocal or instrumental music join Modern Music Masters. The only active honor society in BHS, Tri-M sponsors the variety show and the all-school musical

Smiling joyfully before the Honors Night audience, Susan Anderson slipped into the cloak offered her by Randy Smith. Selected by the faculty for her outstanding scholarship, leadership, character, and service, Susan earned the highest award a junior may receive, the Mantle

Wearing the symbolic gown, Sue strides back to her seat

Randy bestows the Mantle on Sue, who may keep it one year

Honor societies recognize students with talent

Two A's and a B or three A's during three consecutive semesters of a language—this is the basic requirement for entrance into any of the three language honor societies of BHS. Spanish Honor Society also stipulates that their members maintain a B average in Spanish. French Honor Society, which is affiliated nationally, admits only French Club members. German Honor Society, new this year, has no additional requirements.

Involvement in athletics paves way to honors

Elected by the members of GAA for her qualities of scholarship, leadership, and sportsmanship, Linda Cox received the Rosemary Zvonar award, presented annually at the GAA mother-daughter banquet to the junior girl so chosen.

To qualify for National Athletic Honor Society, a junior or senior boy must have earned a varsity letter in one major or two minor sports and must receive above average grades in all subjects.

Mary Sue Newman, last year's recipient, gives Linda her trophy.

Scientific, artistic minds merit awards

Advised by Mr. Kuntzelman, Thespians is an honor society for outstanding Drama Club members. In order to qualify for this organization, a student must earn ten points throughout the school year by participating in skits and plays or attending professional dramatic presentations

Heidi Benzel and Dominic LaPinta won gold keys as finalists in the Scholastic Art Award contest, sponsored by Chas. V. Weise Company.

Tim Backstrom, the senior with the highest scholastic standing in science subjects earned the Bausch & Lomb Science Award. Paul Pederson received the Science Metals Award, given to a senior completing four years of science with top grades.

Tyler Lanning, Lynn Walker, Heidi Benzel, Wendy Woodcock, and Diane Ludlow inspect the work of their classmates. All but Heidi, whose finalist work was sent to New York for exhibition, won semi-finalist honors in this contest

Student talent provides promise for future

Three senior girls recognized for their accomplishments were Anne Schmig, Julia Miles, and Sue Kiner. For the second consecutive year, Anne placed first in the national math test thus again receiving the Mathematics Association of America Award. Julia won a $1,000 scholarship for the pastry she baked in the Penny Flame Cherry Pie Contest. Sue, scoring the highest on a written homemaking test, received the Homemaker of Tomorrow Award

Anne happily delves into the mysterious realm of Pythagoras and Chebyshev to learn more about theories and theorems

At the Northwest District Contest Julie stirred a $1.00 investment in Silver Mill frozen cherries into a $1,000 pie

Sue asserted her academic abilities, scoring the most points on a test encompassing all aspects of home economics.

Through FFA boys learn techniques which help them in the fields of agriculture. Outstanding chapter farmers earned awards in the divisions of sheep, beef, corn, soybeans, crop farming, and crop specialty. Also, Earl Swanson won the State Farmer Degree and Gary Norem the Star State Farmer award of Section 6.

Gary Norem's outstanding agricultural abilities earned him the title of Star State Farmer.

Earl Swanson and Gary Young show off their section winner plaques which they received through FFA involvement

Top crop productions earned L. Anderson, D. Bye, J. Gallano, R. Brockman and D. Brockman division awards

June 6, 1969

To all our friends at BHS,

Our year, 1969, has so quickly come and gone. But no one can deny that this year has been great! Whether at games cheering for the Bucs or at parties enjoying ourselves or at school furthering our education, we have felt a closeness to each fellow student and a sense of personal friendship. Now at the ripe old age of 17, we leave BHS, older and wiser (supposedly) and ready to face the future with determination and courage.

We have enjoyed producing this remembrance of '69 and hope that it recalls the events which have meant so much to you. Needless to say, the publication of this book is due to the inspiration and dedication of the whole '69 Belvi staff. We owe a debt of gratitude to all those who contributed to this year's Belvi, but we wish to pay special tribute to Kathie Swanson, whose creative imagination composed columns of copy and countless captions; to Marsha Gesell, who literally saved us by becoming Senior Section editor two weeks before the deadline; to Randy Smith, our chaotic and disorganized Sports editor, who did a tremendous amount of work—even if it was all at the last minute; and to the Organizations staff, who succeeded in improving that section greatly.

Most of all, our sincere thanks goes to our long-suffering friend and advisor, Mr. Waterman, whose unfailing patience and quiet support channeled our wild ideas into practical plans and kept us going during those hectic and trying times before deadlines.

Although we felt safe and secure in high school with all our friends, the time has come to separate, going our own ways and making new friends. Yet we will always have the opportunity to recall the faces, feelings, and events of this, our senior year. To you, the people of BHS, we leave this book, hoping that someday it will mean to each of you a fraction of what it has meant to us.

Sincerely,

Sue Kimer
